Status of the Application

The present amendment filed on 10/13/2006 adds changes to the specification. The amendment has been approved for entry. Currently claims 20-27 are pending for consideration.

Response to Arguments

Applicant's arguments filed 10/13/2006 have been fully considered but they are not persuasive.

With respect to the argument that Pintauro fails to show a frame that anchors against cylindrical walls of a passage way, see elements 14 and 16 of Pintauro. Element 14 does anchor against the cylindrical walls of a passageway; and element 16, though not illustrated as such, is capable of anchoring against cylindrical walls of a passageway. Moreover, see alternative embodiments as illustrated in figures 21,25,26,35,39,41,44,46 and 47, each of which show a frame that is capable of anchoring against cylindrical walls of a passageway.

With respect to the limitation of a cylindrically shaped seal, again, note elements 14 and 16 and see alternative embodiments as illustrated in figures 21,25,26,35,39,41,44,46 and 47.

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 102

The following is a quotation of the appropriate paragraphs of 35 U.S.C. 102 that form the basis for the rejections under this section made in this Office action:

Art Unit: 3738

A person shall be entitled to a patent unless –

(b) the invention was patented or described in a printed publication in this or a foreign country or in public use or on sale in this country, more than one year prior to the date of application for patent in the United States.

Claims 20-27 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 102(b) as being anticipated by Pintauro et al [5989288].

Pintauro et al discloses a fluid-flow control device [12], comprising: a one-way valve [24] dimensioned for placement in a fluid passageway, wherein the valve [24] is movable between an open configuration allowing air flow through the valve and a closed configuration restricting flow through the valve, the valve being biased into the closed configuration, and wherein the device [12] has a construction that completely blocks air flow through the fluid passageway when the valve [24] is in the closed configuration, and a frame [14] coupled to the valve, wherein the frame self-expands within a fluid passageway sufficiently to anchor the flow control device within the fluid passageway.

See figure 3.

While the claim is written and intended to be used as a pulmonic valve for insertion into a bronchial passageway, the claims as worded structurally and functionally fails to distinguish over the valve of Pintauro et al. While Pintauro et al fails to disclose the valve to be used in the bronchial passageway, there is no language in the specification and in applicant's claims that precludes Pintauro et al from being employed in the manner as claimed.

Claim 21, see column 13, lines 5+.

Claim 22, see column 8, lines 38+.

Claims 23-27, see corresponding rejection supra.

Conclusion

THIS ACTION IS MADE FINAL. Applicant is reminded of the extension of time policy as set forth in 37 CFR 1.136(a).

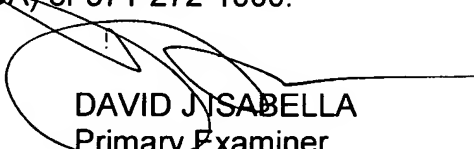

A shortened statutory period for reply to this final action is set to expire THREE MONTHS from the mailing date of this action. In the event a first reply is filed within TWO MONTHS of the mailing date of this final action and the advisory action is not mailed until after the end of the THREE-MONTH shortened statutory period, then the shortened statutory period will expire on the date the advisory action is mailed, and any extension fee pursuant to 37 CFR 1.136(a) will be calculated from the mailing date of the advisory action. In no event, however, will the statutory period for reply expire later than SIX MONTHS from the mailing date of this final action.
